

Margaret the gardener

publié le 27/05/2019

On May 22nd, Margaret suddenly felt an urgent need to garden, so she took the gardening tools and off she went into the garden. She planted many flowers of many different colours. But all of a sudden, she felt a terrible pain... Indeed an insect had stung her. So she let go of her tools and ran back into the house. She looked at herself in a mirror and realized that she was swelling more and more. She called for an ambulance and was taken to the emergency service. Fortunately, it wasn't too bad, and after she had been put some cream on, she could get back home.

Margaret threw her gardening tools in the bin, and she promised to herself that she would never ever do some gardening again.
