

Guy Chauvet Challenge

Dream Team(the best)

The first challenge was to build a spaghetti tower.

We built a tower with spaghetti, marshmallow, sellotape tape and string.

The challenge was not easy because the objects were very brittle. When the tower got too high, the objects were falling.

In my team, there were 6 students, so we exchanged our ideas to make the best tower, but it collapsed.

Here is my team during the spaghetti tower challenge:

The second challenge was a mime. We had to imitate animals, objects, celebrities... We were queueing and we had to guess the pictures that were shown behind us.

We could explain or define but we couldn't say the word. It was funny.

On the third week, we answered a quiz about abbreviations and English culture. While the other teams were answering the quiz, we were with Mrs Legeard doing an other challenge: three members of the team (Clement, Anna and Elisa) put their hands in three different boxes and tried to guess what was in each box. We had just eight minutes to find out. Because of a draw, we had to find another thing: there was salt but we didn't find it. After the quizz, we had to answer riddles. We enjoyed this challenge because it was very funny.

We loved the Guy Chauvet challenge because it was funny and interesting and sometimes it was a bit crazy. The funniest activity was the spaghetti challenge. We didn't have a lot of forfeits because we were very discreet, so we are the best team ever.
